As the head coach, you are responsible for the development plans, season plans and training plans of the men's Bundesliga team, as well as managing games, training sessions, and other team events. You are responsible both for developing the tactical teamplay, and supporting the players' development on an individual level.

One important part of the head coach's responsibilities is to raise and help the coaches to grow up future Bundesliga players from the club's own junior path. This is supported by the club's already existing junior concept. Monitoring and developing this concept as well as implementation of the new things are part of the job description together with the club's heads of junior coaching.

We are looking for an ambitious coach who is enthusiastic to develop the game and players, as well as open to learning new things and developing
